

Are you looking up to the people who are on stage? We are simple humans, just like you. The biggest difference is the position in the room. We're talking, you're listening and growing.

But, you could be standing there as well! You can tell your story, share your experiences and expertise just like any other speaker can. A few years ago, I was attending conferences like this one. Soaking up knowledge and being in awe of the speakers. Fast forward to now, where I'm speaking to people all over the world and having a blast doing it.

I'll happily share my steps, my way of working and the fun I've had and am having. But also the stress that you can feel. But in the end, it's a very rewarding path.

And when I'm done talking, I really hope you'll start!

My way of working

- ▶ General idea, write an abstract (conceptually)
- ▶ Split it up in subideas
- ▶ Split these up into main points to create the main structure
- ▶ Create the slide deck with these main points
- ▶ Write the complete story you want to tell
- ▶ Enhance the slide deck where necessary
- ▶ Create demo's where applicable
- ▶ Add screenshots to your slide deck

Practice!

Practice!

How (not) to handle nerves

- ▶ Having nerves is perfectly normal
- ▶ Don't forget to breathe
- ▶ Take a drink to force yourself to slow down
- ▶ Or...

- ▶ Things will go wrong
- ▶ Work with them
- ▶ Try and be prepared

Finding my style

- ▶ You be you
- ▶ Don't imitate or impersonate
- ▶ Incorporate

Not being selected

“It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat.”

Make your abstract fit the event

- ▶ What's your subject
- ▶ Who is your audience
- ▶ What can they expect
- ▶ What will they leave your session with

► <https://Callfordataspeakers.com>

- Overview of events looking for speakers

► <https://sessionize.com>

- Most used website to maintain your abstracts and submit them to events.

► <https://newstarsofdata.com>

- The event to start your speaking career; you'll get ALL the help YOU need.

► <https://office.com>

- Use the PowerPoint online trainer to hone your skills

► The community; most people are willing to help

- ▶ Repeat the question
- ▶ Audio > Video
- ▶ Listen to other presenters
- ▶ You are the most important part

- ▶ Asking two questions at the beginning
- ▶ Storytelling: personal, problem, gold
- ▶ Adding a slide for you to read
- ▶ Keeping slides as simple as possible. Less is more
- ▶ Use questions as headers
- ▶ Using position in front of you to emphasize

Make sure it's YOU!

It's you now

A little thing to practice with

- ▶ Pick an Icon (next slide)
- ▶ Create a short story (1 minute is fine)
  - Make it personal (about you)
  - Start with something that was difficult
  - End with what it helped you with
